Commission Recommends No Revision But Majority Lines Up Otherwise.

SWEDISH SYSTEM VIEWED FAVORABLY

General Strengthening of Enforcement Units Agreed on by Majority of Individuals.

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—(UP)—Support of the eighteenth amendment, opposition to its modification and efforts further to strengthen the present prohibition enforcement system were pleaded today by President Hoover in transmitting the Wickersham report to congress.

By this action Mr. Hoover takes a conspicuous place as a leader of the dry forces in the battle over prohibition which is expected to be waged as part of next year's presidential campaign. In so far as his leadership is effective, his action today commits the republican party to defense of the eighteenth amendment. It could attempt revision only by repudiating his leadership.

This development, surcharged with many political possibilities, brushed aside, so far as the administration is concerned, the individual recommendations of a majority of the Wickersham commissioners who in separate reports favored abolition or basic revision of the eighteenth amendment to give congress power to restore the liquor traffic under government regulation.

Against Repeal.

The Wickersham commission's general report declared:

1. Against repeal of the eighteenth amendment.
2. Against restoring light wines and beer.
3. Against return of the saloon.
4. Against federal or state governments as such going into the liquor business.
5. For placing a definite alcoholic limit on citizens and on the sale of liquor in the house, now unrestricted except that it must be non-intoxicating in fact.
6. Against greater latitude in federal search and seizure.
7. For greater prohibition enforcement appropriations and personnel.
8. That in event the eighteenth amendment is revised it should read as to give congress the power to "regulate or prohibit" liquor traffic, abolishing the present language which makes prohibition mandatory and giving congress discretion to restore liquor traffic under regulation.

Individuals Differ.

In individual separate reports the commissioners committed themselves as follows:

For further trial—Wickersham, Grubb, Kenyon, McCormick, Lemann.

For unconditional repeal—Baker, McManis.

For revision of the eighteenth amendment—Anderson, Leesch, Mackintosh, Combs, and others. The report of the commission, however, provided further trial proved the present system a failure, and Baker agreeing provided unconditional repeal failed.

Mr. Hoover sent this report, 30,000 words long, to congress shortly after noon.

"The commission, by a large majority, does not favor the repeal of the eighteenth amendment as a method of cure for the inherent abuses of the liquor traffic," he said in a message accompanying the report. "I am in accord with this view. I am in unit with the spirit of the report in seeking constructive steps to advance the national ideal of eradication of the social and economic and political evils of this traffic, to preserve the gains which have been made, and to eliminate the abuses which exist, at the same time facing with an open mind the difficulties which have arisen under this experiment.

"I do, however, see serious objections to, and therefore must not be

The ordinance was passed by the police committee, which was organized by Murphy, and which has been working for the radio system for more than two years.

JURY TO GET CASE OF DE BOE TODAY

Ex-Secretary Tells of Saving $227,000 for Screen Star.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 20.—(AP)—Phantoms of the gay life of Clara Bow, boy friends, liquor and poker, paraded before a jury of elderly men and women today as the taking of testimony in the trial of Daisy DeBoe on grand theft charges came to an end and counsel launched closing arguments.

The case was expected to be given to the jurors tomorrow afternoon and may send the former secretary of filmland's dashing redhead to the penitentiary for 1 to 10 years or free her of the alleged theft of $15,000 from Clara. If convicted, she also might receive probation.

David Clark, chief prosecutor, in a brief closing argument, accused Miss DeBoe of deliberate perjury. While she went everywhere with the actress under the guise of a companion, Clark said, "she was in reality a thief, stealing from Miss Bow right and left."

Clark brought forth points in the testimony dealing with the lives of the two women and their boy friends, Rex Bell, the cowboy in Clara's heart, and curly-headed Alfred Mathies, whose sweetheart is Daisy. Purchases of liquor, gambling debts and other recollections in their lives also were recalled to the jurors as Clark sought to show how Miss DeBoe committed the alleged theft.

Clark was not in the courtroom for this last scene, although the state would have had her there if her physician had permitted her to leave her home, where she is ill with a cold.

Miss DeBoe was there. She led the list of witnesses who crossed the stand before the taking of testimony closed and claimed that whatever the question, she was innocent.

There was only $30,000 in the Bow trust fund when she took over the financial reins. Daisy testified, and was lost her job last November $227,000 was piling up interest in a

Georgia Dry Leader Fears Report Will Strengthen Efforts of Wets

The Wickersham report as a whole favors the eighteenth amendment, but individual statements therein will strengthen the wets in their fight to restore the liquor traffic, Dr. Charles O. Jones, state superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of Georgia, said Tuesday.

"The Wickersham commission's report, although practically unanimous, is neutralized by the statements of individual members," Dr. Jones said. "The report justifies the assertions of the drys that the law has not had a

$6,000,000 Bond Issue Is Proposed by Gillen

Topping all other plans that have been advanced for paying Georgia's state deficit of $6,200,000, Representative L. Thomas Gillen, of Bibb county, Thursday will introduce in the house a bill to provide for the issuance of $6,000,000 of state bonds to take care of the state's unpaid appropriations.

"Any tax that the legislature will impose," Gillen said, "will materially interfere with the complete revision of our taxation system, which now is in process of being formulated. The revision has long been demanded by the public. The legislature at the present time is spending more than $2,500 per day, but if it will adopt this suggestion it can go home at once."

BY R. E. POWELL.

Appearing in person before a joint session of the house ways and means and the senate finance committees Tuesday afternoon, Governor L. G. Hardman reiterated his plea to a special session of the general assembly that it take some legislative action to protect the credit of the state's charitable institutions and insure their operation until another assembly meets in regular session to straighten out the state's financial tangle.

PLAINLY SUGGESTS DRY MODIFICATION, ANDERSON STATES

Member of Board Declares Only One Construction Can Be Placed on Wickersham Report.

RICHMOND, Va., Jan. 20.—(AP)—Colonel Henry W. Anderson said tonight that "taken as a whole" the report of the Wickersham liquor commission report follows:

New York Evening Post—The commissioners should have gone further in taking into their hands the courage and candor which Mr. Hoover tried to deny them. . . . They are wet in their separate reports and dry in their general report. . . . It is not a pretty exhibition of honorable men supposedly seated around a table to solve a great national problem.

Washington (D. C.) Evening Star—It is unfortunate that the commission, or a majority of it, has been unable to determine upon the proper course which should be followed in regard to the prohibition issue. The commissioners have made an intensive study covering a year and a half. It is probable, however, that the members of the commission, like the people of the country, are so divided with regard to national prohibition that it has been utterly impossible to bring them, or a majority of them, to pick a definite program of reform.

Recht-Tribune, New York—It takes little study of the Wickersham report to realize that the first item in its summary of conclusion and recommendation is entirely misleading. This reads: "The commission is opposed to repeal of the eighteenth amendment." Even President Hoover has accepted this statement at its face value though the fact is that nine of the eleven commissioners actually favor the amendment's repeal.

New York Evening Telegram—We agree with Newton J. Baker that immediate repeal is desirable, failing which there should be a referendum through state constitutional conventions suggested by Commissioner Kenyon and Chairman Wickersham.

New York Times—The fact of outstanding interest in the entire report is the six out of the eleven commissioners are of one mind as to the form of modification that should be adopted, if any. It is, in brief, that congress should be given power either to prohibit or to regulate the traffic in intoxicating liquor.

New York Daily News—You can gather one thing anyway, from the Wickersham report. It is that President Hoover is now definitely drier than the crowd of intellectuals he picked to tell him and the country that prohibition is a k.

COUNTY SCHOOL BONDS PROPOSED

Fulton Board To Discuss Issue for Construction Purposes Today.

The county board of education will meet in special session at 10 o'clock this morning at the courthouse to discuss a projected special bond election to raise funds to complete the school construction program halted by the county commission's failure to provide for building in its 1931 appropriations.

The meeting was called by Cam Dorsey, president of the board. Superintendent Jere A. Wells said it had not been determined just how much money is needed to carry on the building program but explained that an addition is needed to the Fulton High school in Buckhead, an annex is needed to Russell High in East Point and elementary schools all over the county are in need of additions or new buildings.

"The board has contemplated at least six new elementary school buildings but plans for them have been canceled because of lack of funds," Mr. Wells said. "A number of other improvements were planned but the county board's inability to provide necessary funds has halted the board's program."

Mr. Wells said that if the board voted to submit the bond proposal to the people petitioning bearing the names of 25 per cent of the registered voters would have to be submitted asking the calling of the election and that a two-third majority of those voting would be necessary to approve the bonds.

"As we see it, the amount to be voted on will be small as bond issues go, but it appears just as necessary as if it were a far greater sum," Mr. Wells said.

If a special election is held only those voters living outside of the borough would vote on the project and only the out of borough taxpayers would be called upon to retire the bonds.

Martha Berry Selected Among America's 12 Greatest Women

ROME, Ga., Jan. 20.—(AP)—Announcement was made here today that Miss Martha Berry, founder and director of Berry schools, has been selected by the board of judges and readers of a nationally-known magazine as one of America's 12 greatest living women.

Miss Berry said she had been notified of the selection. The magazine conducted a contest for several months, and the announcement said the judges chose the winners from the viewpoint of greatness as evidenced by their work, and from votes of the magazine readers.

Among others listed as winners were Jane Addams, Mrs. Minnie Maddern Fiske, Carrie Chapman Catt and Willa Cather.

Miss Berry has been honored by the University of North Carolina and the University of Georgia; was awarded a $5,000 prize by another nationally known magazine; given the Roosevelt medal in 1925 and voted a "distinguished citizen of Georgia" by the legislature.

The Berry school was founded January 13, 1902, and has grown to an institution with an enrollment of nearly a thousand.

BEATED CHANGE IN ATTITUDE LAID TO WHITE HOUSE

Delay in Publication Seen as Caused by Last-Minute Persuasion of Executive.

WIDE DIVERGENCE IN VIEWS CITED

Fact That Bulk of Commission Wanted Immediate Change Contradicts Group Recommendation.

BY PAUL R. MALLON.

United Press Staff Correspondent.

(Copyright, 1931, by United Press.)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—(UP)—A report that President Hoover persuaded the Wickersham commission to abandon a tentative recommendation in favor of revising the 18th amendment was confirmed in an authoritative quarter here tonight.

In this connection it was recalled that republican senate leaders were advised several weeks ago that the commission would report on January 6, but that after several sessions of the commission around that date, a mysterious delay intervened, postponing the report for two weeks. No official explanation was given, merely that the report had been offered. However, the report and the 11 separate individual reports appeared today all dated January 7.

In final form the commission's recommendation stated that "the commission agrees that if the amendment is revised it should be made to read substantially as follows" and then the text was given for proposing to give congress the right to "regulate or prohibit" the liquor traffic instead of making prohibition mandatory as the present amendment does.

President Hoover today referred to the commission's "proposed revision of the eighteenth amendment which is suggested by them for possible consideration at some future time if the continued effort at enforcement should not prove successful."

However, curious references to this proposal were contained in a number of the separate reports, two treating it as a definite recommendation for immediate action by the commission. The discrepancies indicated there might have been some change in the commission's report after the individual opinions were compiled.

Chairman Wickersham, in his separate report, refers to the revised proposal as "the one recommended in our report."

Commissioner Paul J. McCormick, in his separate opinion, says he is in accord with all of the conclusions and recommendations of the commission, which a revision of the eighteenth amendment is suggested immediately. The final recommendation contained no such statement, merely saying that "if the amendment is revised it should read" etc.

Judge William S. Kenyon says in his report that if a "wetter" bill, "the modification of the eighteenth amendment suggested by the commission" should be brought about.

Henry W. Anderson merely concurred in the recommendation of the revision of the amendment.

HADASSAH HONORS TWO LOCAL WOMEN

Three prominent Atlanta women were elected to high offices, and this city was selected as the site for the 1932 meeting of the southern regional convention of Junior and Senior Hadassah, at its closing session at New Orleans Tuesday. Savannah was a strong contender for next year's gathering, but Atlanta supporters won the members over to this city.

Those elected included Miss Mary Frank, Atlanta, as president of the junior section; Miss Helen Seft, Atlanta, first vice president and editor of Bulletin, official organ of Hadassah, and Mrs. Morris Frank, Atlanta, corresponding secretary of the senior section.

Fulton County's Co-operation In Sewer Project Is Expected

Mayor Key Probably Will Approve Paper Today Asking for Assistance in $13,000,000 Program.

Approval by Mayor James L. Key, probably today, of a councilmanic resolution formally requesting co-operation of Fulton county commission in prosecution of a $13,000,000 sewer improvement program for Atlanta and its environs will be an indication of the borough's interest in starting the work at the earliest possible moment, and predictions were that the board will give formal sanction to the plan at its next regular meeting on February 4.

Every member of the commission already is definitely committed to assist in the plan as outlined in a comprehensive survey by Whitman, Reardon and Smith, internationally known Baltimore sanitary experts. The general scheme already has been approved by council and plans for formation of a sewer district including an area of approximately 175 square miles will be offered with the approval of council at the next regular session of the Georgia legislature.

Leading sanitary experts of Atlanta and the affected area have stressed the importance of early start and no effort will be spared, it was indicated by Councilman Frank H. Reynolds, chairman of the sewer committee of council, to begin the work.

Text of the resolution on which the commissioners are expected to take definite action is as follows:

"Resolved by the mayor and general council that the honorable board of county commissioners of roads and revenues be and are hereby respectfully requested to co-operate with the borough of Atlanta in the carrying out of the $13,000,000 sewer extension program as filed in the report to mayor and general council of Whitman, Reardon and Smith, engineers, and Robert & Company, associate engineers."

ATLANTA ENTERED IN HEALTH CONTEST

Atlanta Tuesday was entered in a national health conservation contest to be conducted by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, it was announced by Horace Russell, president of the Atlanta chamber. Reports of Atlanta health agencies for 1930 will be assembled by a committee appointed by Mr. Russell and forwarded to Washington for comparison with the reports from other cities.

Dr. J. W. Wallace, field director of the national chamber, has been in Atlanta for the last several days gathering data and conferring with local health agencies. He was the principal speaker at a luncheon Tuesday noon at the Chamber building which was attended by health agency executives and others interested in the conservation of health.

Those in attendance were: A. L. Yaden, president of the Georgia Association; James S. Richards, secretary of the Florida Association; Clara Stokes, president of the Mississippi Association; H. O. Strohecker, president of the South Carolina Association; E. J. Coltrane, president, and Jule R. Warren, secretary, of the North Carolina Association; C. J. Heatwole, secretary of the Virginia Association; Dr. W. G. Carr, of the National Education Association, of Washington, was also present at the conference.

ROTARY CLUB GROWTH OUTLINED BY WALLACE

Marietta Attorney Speaks at Session Turned Over to Visiting Members.

The growth of the Rotary Club movement was outlined by Campbell Wallace, well-known Marietta attorney, at the weekly meeting of the Atlanta Rotary Club Tuesday, which was held under the direction of the visiting Marietta club members, under the presidency of Robert Van Sant, president of the organization in that city. Mr. Wallace traced the development of the movement from its inception at a round table meeting in Chicago 25 years ago.

Rotary, he said, has extended into 64 countries and more than 3,300 clubs and towns. In his talk he applied the principles of the organization from the beginning to the various changes in the world's aspect from the beginning to the present, and the great influence Rotary has exerted at all times.

Music featured the program, with Miss Anna Goodman rendering several vocal solos, accompanied on the piano by Miss Glenn Hancock. Mrs. John Boston delivered a special reading of a humorous nature, and Samuel Kamb presented the "sunshine report" in an interesting manner.

Plea of Guilty Declined, Man Returned to Jail

What is believed to have been some sort of record was established Tuesday when Superior Judge E. D. Thomas refused to accept a prisoner's plea of guilty and sent him back to the tower without sentence.

The prisoner was J. C. Reynolds, arrested several days ago on a charge of larceny after taking it being alleged that he took $600 entrusted to him by the Newway Towel Supply Company.

Tuesday Reynolds heard his case was to go before the grand jury and asked Jailor Bob Holland to send him to the courthouse to enter a plea as soon as the indictment was voted. Reynolds waited in Judge Thomas' courtroom more than an hour until the grand jury returned the bill which was brought to court by Assistant Solicitor-General Ed A. Stephens.

Mr. Stephens read the true bills and Reynolds announced his intention to plead guilty.

"What are the circumstances?" Judge Thomas asked.

No witnesses were available and Mr. Stephens said he had not handled the case and was not familiar with it. "The plea is refused at this time," Judge Thomas said. "I cannot hope to give this man justice if I do not know the facts in the case. We will have to wait until later and hear all the facts and circumstances."

Reynolds went back to the tower.

Rittenhouse, John Richard Moreland and Valda Stewart Montgomery, well known American poets.

SHELL HIKES RATE, "WAR" IS AVERED

Decision of the Shell Petroleum Company to raise to 22 cents a gallon its retail price on gasoline dispensed Tuesday in Atlanta. The price hike of the Shell organization brought local petrol prices to a uniform 22-cent level. In addition Standard, Gulf, Wofford Oil and the Texas companies were charging 22 cents, having raised the price to that mark Monday.

Advices from Birmingham Tuesday were that gasoline prices had been increased to 21 cents a gallon by half a dozen leading oil companies in that city. It was believed the increase would become general throughout Alabama, Texas, Standard, General, Louisiana, Pan-Am, and Shell announced three-cent rises, the Indian Company two cents, while the Gulf and Wofford concerns had made no decision during the day.

3 MEN HELD ON FORGERY COUNTS

Three men who gave their occupations as advertising solicitors were indicted Tuesday by the Fulton grand jury on charges of forgery. The true bills named Herman Castleberry, Sam Daniel and Walter S. Dunham, all of whom are under arrest.

Solicitor General John A. Boykin said the trio solicited advertising for a fake labor publication and copied the signatures of persons they sold advertising to spurious checks which were cashed.

Castleberry is alleged to have forged the name of C. V. Logan, produce merchant, to a check for $20 and the name of D. T. Howard, negro undertaker, to a check for $55. The charge against Dunham is that he forged the name of Mr. Logan to a check for $11.25, while Daniel is alleged to have forged Howard's name to a check for $91.25.

MAN FOUND DEAD SITTING AT RADIO

The body of Mr. Hester, who was at his post as usual Monday afternoon in the company's offices, and apparently in good health, was discovered by other residents of the house after he had failed to answer a call to breakfast. Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. John B. Adams and Miss Evelyn Hester, both of Atlanta; two brothers, Joe, of Clanton, Ala., and Frank Hester, of Birmingham, and three sisters, Mrs. C. L. Godshall, of Nashville; Mrs. Henry Hunnicutt, of Birmingham, and Mrs. Guy Sterling, of Detroit.

EDUCATION LEADERS CLOSE MEETING HERE

Progress of Schools Discussed at Two-Day Conference With Sutton.

Officers of education associations in six of the southern states Tuesday ended a two-day conference here with Willis A. Sutton, Atlanta superintendent and president of the National Education Association. The standard of education, the progress of schools generally and the salaries of teachers were among the subjects discussed. Leaders in the discussions pointed out that despite the progress made by the south Atlantic states they still are far behind the average in the number of school days each year and likewise are below the standard in the matter of teachers' salaries.

It was shown through figures compiled by the National Education Association that the average cost per pupil each year over the United States is $71 while in Georgia the average cost is only $23 with the other southern states correspondingly low.

The following attended the meeting with Mr. Sutton:

Robert F. Maddox, president Georgia state board of health; Dr. J. P. Kennedy, city health officer; H. Reid Hunter, assistant superintendent of schools; Mrs. R. P. Cheshire, president, and Mrs. M. T. Edgerton, health chairman, Parent-Teacher Association; Miss Gail McDonald, Red Cross Society; Miss Myrtle Jolly, nurse, Sears, Roebuck & Co., and George A. Dunagin, United States department of agriculture.

NEW CONSTITUTION URGED BY BRITAIN

Revision To Remedy Multiplicity of Educational Expense Is Advocated.

Revision of the constitution of Georgia to remedy the evil of multiplicity of educational expense to the state was strongly advocated by Dr. M. L. Brittain, president of the Georgia School of Technology, at a meeting of the Civitan Club Tuesday.

If the present legislative tendency to create new branches of the university system is not checked, the educator asserted, "the logical result will be to establish a university in each of the 161 counties and earn the ridicule of all educated humanity." Dr. Brittain declared that the old constitution of 1877 "makes this easy by allowing each legislature to create a branch, or as many branches as desired," and expressed the opinion that a new constitution could remedy this situation.

In his address, Dr. Brittain said: "One of the strangest features to an educational visitor is the large and increasing number of colleges and so-called universities in Georgia. In the newspapers of yesterday, the president of Columbia says that there are only nine real universities in the United States. He probably overlooked the fact that Georgia alone has, or thinks she has, that many herself."

"At every session of our general assembly, new branches of the university are created and five are reported on the doorstep for the June meeting. Why not be frank about this and state the truth, namely, that these are merely instances of efforts on the part of towns and counties to get the state to take over the local high school, call it a college and be relieved of its support. We have 25 already—twice as many as any neighboring state—and every little new-comer gets trustees appointed from the general assembly to insure future appropriations."

"If this is not checked, the logical result will be to establish a university in each of the 161 counties and earn the ridicule of all educated humanity. The old constitution of 1877 makes this easy by allowing each legislature to create a branch or as many branches as desired of the university."

"It is time for somebody to speak out vigorously on this subject before the whole state is shamed in the eyes of the world. A new constitution could remedy the evil and especially if it provided a state board of control or regents. Until then, public opinion should aid the general assembly to fight this evil in multiplication and duplication of educational expense and effort on the part of a commonwealth none too able to care for even reasonable needs."

"I think this has caused the general impression that Georgia does not provide equally with her sister states."

Fair, Warmer Weather Seen For City Today

Fair and considerably warmer weather is promised Atlanta and vicinity today.

The murky atmosphere will clear somewhat and the temperature rise as high as 45 degrees this afternoon and maybe higher, the forecast Monday of Meteorologist C. F. von Herrmann said.

Tuesday's minimum temperature of 31 degrees will be surpassed by a low of about 35 this morning, the prediction said.

THREE NAMES ADDED TO NU-GRAPE BOARD

Company Expresses Confidence of Gradual Improvement in Business.

Officers and directors of the Nu-Grape Company of America were re-elected at the annual stockholders' meeting held Tuesday in the general offices of the company in Atlanta. Three new names: J. Louis Morrison, R. A. Wood and Eugene Harrington, were placed on the board of directors.

Reports of officers indicate that the company has just completed one of the most elaborate expansion programs in its entire history. Starting last March by the purchase of a chain of 17 bottling plants from the Mavis Company of America, it has increased its distribution and sales in the middle and north Atlantic territory over 200 per cent.

In addition to Mavis chocolate drink, several new flavors were brought out during 1930 and introduced in hundreds of markets by the company's franchise distributors. These new beverages are known as Nu Ice orange ade and Nu Ice grapefruit and are made exclusively from fruit juices.

The company is planning to launch another elaborate program of national advertising in the early spring as an expression of confidence that the worst of the general business depression is over and that a constant, gradual improvement is to be expected each quarter throughout the current year.

for her higher institutions of learning. Last March the executive secretary of the Guggenheim Foundation came to Atlanta with the statement that our work at Georgia Tech merited the award to us of their final appropriation but that he wished to be assured of support if the award was made. I called together representatives of the state, city and county, who gave to him this assurance, and I feel sure that it will be cared for, but the difficulty will be great if we are to have this constant increase of higher institutions of learning."

"Our old constitution of 1877 is about as suitable for present educational conditions as an oxcart for this automobile age. With the best men from each state senatorial district as members—as was the case in 1877—this state could be set free from the straightjacket in which we have been confined and made ready for a new era of progress and prosperity."

Importance of Georgia's Meeting Unpaid Appropriations Stressed by Judge Orville Park in Address Before Lions

inent businessman; Judge Park, Sam E. Levy, president of the club, and J. Wesley Culpepper, chairman of the house ways and means committee. Standing are Ronald Ransom, member of the association, on the left, and State Senator W. B. Whaley, a member of the senate finance committee. Staff photo by Kenneth Rogers.

Referring specifically to the surveys of state conditions recently made by Dr. Harley Lutz, Princeton University economist, Judge Park stressed the fact that a new opinion is working in Georgia and that the larger taxpayers who have heretofore resisted taxation programs are now interested in working out some plan that will protect the state's credit and operate also as a check against any recurrence of the present deficit trouble.

Transported to the Henry Grady hotel in special busses, members of the revenue raising committees participated in the luncheon meeting and returned to the capitol to attend committees in session to hear heads of state institutions.

thing and the other half want to buy. If I accepted all the business they're offering I'd have to merge with a mail order house."

Benham got into the national limelight recently when it was learned the grand jury was expected to inquire into his business, which he said consisted of buying articles such as automobiles and homes at bargain prices and turning them quickly to others at large profits.

Illinois 'Financial Wizard' Quits, Frightened by Publicity Fruits

BELVIDERE, Ill., Jan. 20.—(P)—The local "mint" has been closed, temporarily at least.

The "mint" in this particular case happens to be Albert W. Benham, who has picked up a lot of nicknames lately, including "Midas," "The One-Man Mint" and "Big-Money Al" because he has gained the reputation of paying from 20 to 50 per cent to investors.

STATE EDUCATORS APPEAL TO PUBLIC

People Urged To Insist on Justice for Schools at Hands of Legislature.

MACON, Ga., Jan. 20.—In a statement issued here today the Georgia Education Association calls on the people of Georgia to urge their senators and representatives to make provision for the past due appropriations to the educational institutions of the state.

Declaring that the schools are in debt more than $5,000,000, the statement, which is signed by L. Y. Adair, president, and Kyle T. Alford, secretary, sets out that the various boards of education acted on their good faith in the state of Georgia.

The statement concludes with the following appeal: "So we appeal to the people of Georgia to see that justice is done the educational interests of the state and to all others. We made our plans on anticipated revenue as all other state departments did and all other business organizations must do. The expected revenue after all obligations have been made fails to come. The schools are in the same condition as the business world. Every business man in Georgia made debts last spring expecting them to be paid with 20 cents cotton. Cotton is now 9 cents. No banker says to a farmer because his cotton income is cut in half to pay only half and he will mark off the other. Boards of education make contracts during the last few years on the faith in the state that their income would be over six and a half millions dollars a year. It has been only a little over five million dollars.

If these boards' contracts with the banks are sacred—and they are—why should not contracts of the state made with these boards be sacred and kept in full? We have not been extravagant, we have not wasted the people's money. We have only trusted in the honor of Georgia. Shall the children of today say when they come to manhood and womanhood that the state broke faith with them? Christ healed the lame, the blind and the sick. But it was only of a little child that He said: 'Of such is the kingdom of heaven. Woe be to him who places a stumbling block in the way of the little.' An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure! Is more true today than ever. Ignorance and poverty are the chief causes of disease and crime. Poverty is the child of ignorance. Education is the enemy of both. It rests with you, the people of Georgia, and your representatives to see that the next generation of Georgians will be wealth-producing citizens or wards of the state. Support of schools and colleges or more efficient prisons and sanitariums is the choice the people of Georgia must make.

"Hence we are depending on you, the people of Georgia, to urge that your representatives and senators take steps to pay all the debts of the state in full and thus keep faith with this and coming generations."

THOMASVILLE, Ga., Jan. 20.—Wakulla county, 40 miles south of Thomasville, in Florida, is suffering from a fuel complication. They complain that they almost freeze when they go to the courthouse to transact business, and many of them are vociferously demanding that the commissioners rescind the no-fuel decree.

ALABAMA'S ECONOMY DRIVE INAUGURATED

House Anticipates Miller's First Message in Moves To Cut Pay Rolls.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Jan. 20.—(AP)—Governor B. M. Miller today delivered his first message to the Alabama legislature in person before a joint session of the house and senate, in which he asked for speedy enactment of measures for determining the state's financial condition and a reduction of personnel of three commissions.

Anticipating the governor's request, six measures already had been introduced in the house today, referred to committees, and sent back with favorable reports before his message was read.

In his message of approximately 600 words, the shortest on record for the state, Governor Miller asked the legislature to enact a double primary law to replace the present "single primary" law, with right of second choice vote, to restore "majority rule."

The legislature was asked to enact measures authorizing the governor to "have a detailed study and survey made of state government" and recommendations were made to eliminate seven members of the highway and tax commissions and the board of administration by reducing them to one man each.

Woman's Hips Bigger From Life of Ease

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—(AP)—Auto riding, easy living and cocktail drinking increased the composite American woman's hip measure by two inches during the years of super-prosperity.

Authority, Herbert L. Kamber, executive manager and tape measure expert of one of New York's large designing and manufacturing wholesale garment houses.

Spinach and grapefruit notwithstanding, Kamber said, American women are getting "hipper" and heavier. It's no secret in the garment trade, he averred.

"And this talk about the improvement in American girls' figure is a myth," Kamber added.

MILITARY LEADERS TALK OF PEACE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—(AP)—Army, navy and aviation experts today placed before 600 women peace leaders of the Cause and Cure of War conference the way they looked at war. The papers they prepared for the meeting showed a wide range of views.

Admiral Pratt, chief of naval operations, held that at present there is no cure for war.

Major General John F. O'Ryan, who commanded the Twenty-seventh division in the World War, said the World Court could cure war if the United States would join it.

Edward P. Wayne, former aeronautics secretary of the commerce department, said airplanes would be most difficult to deal with in disarmament, "for in the air it is impossible to define what is to be limited."

Rear Admiral Mark L. Bristol, of the navy general board, warned the delegates not to place too much confidence in ending international strife through disarmament.

SENATE PROPOSES NEW AID MEASURE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—(AP)—Relief legislation took a new turn in the senate today as its agriculture committee approved a measure to donate 20,000,000 bushels of farm board wheat to feed hungry Americans.

The bill would authorize the board to turn over the wheat to any agency selected by President Hoover to supervise the distribution. The farm board revolving fund would be credited with the average cost of the wheat.

Senator Caraway, democrat, Arkansas, characterized the legislation as a direct appropriation of $15,000,000, which he estimated would be the cost of the wheat.

The bill originally provided for the distribution of 40,000,000 bushels, but the farm board reported not more than 20,000,000 could be used. The board altogether holds more than 100,000,000 bushels as a result of its efforts to stabilize the price.

Senator Capper, republican, Kansas, who introduced the bill, predicted its early approval by the senate.

Colds and Coughs Yield to Calotabs

Medical writers agree that the important point in the treatment of a cold, or cough due to a cold, is to relieve the congestion in the nose and throat, thereby preventing serious complications which may follow a neglected cold. To stop this congestion calotabs was the accepted and standard remedy until Calotabs, the improved calomel compound tablet, was introduced.

Now that science has robbed calomel of its nausea and danger, making it pleasant to take and perfectly safe for general use, over forty million Calotabs are consumed in the U. S.
yearly with only the most pleasant and satisfactory results. In millions of homes Calotabs have proven their superiority in the prompt relief of colds and coughs due to colds.

One or two Calotabs at bedtime with a glass of sweet milk or water.
No salts necessary. No nausea nor the slightest interference with your eating, work or pleasure. Next morning the congestion has subsided, your cold or cough is relieved, your system is thoroughly purified and you are feeling fine with a hearty appetite for breakfast. Eat what you wish —no danger.

Get a family package of Calotabs, containing full directions, only thirty-five cents. Trial size, ten cents. At any drug store.—(adv.)

STEEL HEAD SEES BUSINESS UPTURN

Reduction in Wages Hit as "Slow Down" to Recovery.

CHICAGO, Jan. 20.—(AP)—The pendulum of industrial activity, in the belief of James A. Farrell, president of the United States Steel Corporation, is swinging back to normal. The broad-shouldered, white-haired head of the two-billion-dollar steel concern expressed his opinion in an address on "Business" before the National Canvassers and National Wholesale Grocers.

Declaring that in his opinion the "peak of the depression passed 30 days ago," the speaker said the time has now come for "greater enterprise in trade—for loosening up business," adding that "we are quite capable of doing more than was done in 1930."

He opposed wage reductions, saying, "There are some," he said, "who urge a reduction in wages corresponding to the drop in prices. They affect to believe that such a liquidation of labor would hasten a return to normal conditions."

"Apparently those who advocate this solution have not stopped to weigh the implications that, instead of tending to increase consumption of industrial and agricultural products, such wage reductions must inevitably reduce the purchasing power of the wage earner and restrict consumption."

"It is my deliberate judgment that a general reduction of wages in this country would set back the impending recovery by at least two years."

N. Y. POLICE BREAK UP 'REDS' AFTER BATTLE

Many Injured When Fighting Grows Fierce in Shadow of City Hall.

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—(AP)—Cops and communists fought again today. It was in the shadow of the city hall where the communists had gone with new demands for a dole.

Some were knocked down. Some were arrested. Police were doused with pails of water. There were instances in which officers and spectators were blackjacked. A mounted policeman was dragged from his horse. An officer laid a hard punch on the jaw of a newspaper reporter and said: "Put that in your paper."

A woman communist attempted to climb to the safety of the Benjamin Franklin statue. Communists dragged her down. She fell violently at their feet. She shouted "Damn you cossacks!" and tried to bite one of them in the leg.

Someone hurled a bag of water that burst in the faces of several officers. "A bomb!" someone cried, and the crowd fell back.

Several policemen, isolated in the crowd, were set upon by as many as 15 communists and severely beaten before being rescued.

When the disturbance broke out on a corner of Union Square an apple vendor sought desperately to reach a nearby hallway with his fruit. He was seized by the wrist and the apples and began pelting policemen and photographers with them.

The disorder continued for 20 minutes before mounted officers charged, driving the crowd down Park Row, through the Bowery and under the municipal building where the communists then stood again. The second fight lasted only a few minutes.

REAPPORTIONMENT REVISION ASKED

Efforts To Save Georgia From Losing Representation Sought.

BY GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—In an effort to save Georgia from losing a part of its present representation in the new congress to be elected next year, Representative Charles G. Edwards, of Savannah, today laid before the lower house a bill seeking a revision of the reapportionment already enacted.

Under the Edwards bill the membership of the house would be increased from 435, the present number, to 462, a figure which would enable Georgia and the other losing states to retain their existing representation. As the matter now stands Georgia is slated to lose two, reducing its delegation to 10 members.

Authority for a revision of the reapportionment legislation was given by congress last session in passing the combined census-reapportionment act. Unless action is taken by March 4, next, however, reapportionment on the basis of 435 members and the new census will be automatically proclaimed.

Representative Edwards' bill is one of several which have been introduced on the subject since congress met in December, but there is little if any prospect that enough votes will be found to upset the legislation already passed. Such bills would receive the vigorous opposition of state gaining representation and all that is necessary to defeat the new proposals is for opponents to prevent a vote, by filibuster or otherwise.

Taxation Causes Viscerous Astor To Close Estate

TAPLOW BRUCKS, England, Jan. 20.—(AP)—Viscount Astor's beautiful estate, Cliveden, in whose gardens some of America's war dead are buried, is to be closed because the burden of taxation weighs too heavily upon the viscount's purse.

At a meeting of his tenants today he announced he would close the historic estate because "for every hundred pounds sterling I receive, I have to pay 60 to the state."

Cliveden is one of the loveliest places in Buckinghamshire, a district famous for its beauty. There Lord Astor and his wife, the former Nancy Langhorne, of Virginia, have entertained extensively some of the most distinguished figures on both sides of the Atlantic.

Surrounded by the quiet beauty of the Cliveden woods, the estate lies on the left bank of the Thames. Its mansion was built in 1849 by Sir Charles Barry. A section of it is part of a castle built there several centuries ago for the heir to the British throne.

There is a small natural amphitheater not far from the mansion and it was here, according to a legend of the countryside, where "Rule Britannia" was first sung at a royal garden party.

There was a hospital at Cliveden during the World War and in the summer of 1914 the estate was one of the loveliest spots on the estate. He some of the British, American, Canadian and Australian soldiers who died in the hospital.

The first Lord Astor built a chapel overlooking the cemetery.

BLACKWOOD SWORN IN AS CAROLINA GOVERNOR

New South Carolina Executive Urges a Program of Strict Economy.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Jan. 20.—(AP)—Ibra C. Blackwood, 54-year-old attorney from Spartanburg, today took the oath of office that made him the seventeenth governor of South Carolina.

In a stand, calm voice the new executive repeated after Chief Justice Eugene S. Blease, of the state supreme court, the promise to uphold the laws of the state and not to engage in dueling.

The last part of the oath is a reminder of the days prior to 1881, when South Carolinians were wont to defend their honor in personal combat.

Governor Blackwood succeeds John G. Richards, who defeated him four years ago in the race for the office. Both, like all other South Carolina officials, are democrats.

Grippy Aches Sinus Pains Aching Joints . . .

relieved in three minutes with "BC"

When one of those grippy, aching colds come on, and you want immediate pain relief, go to any drug store or soda fountain and ask for a package or dose of "BC." Three minutes after taking, the pain begins to recede, your nerves are rested, fever reduced and comforting relief set in. "BC" contains several ingredients that function together for the relief of pain (female pains included) regardless of its origin, accomplishing in a few minutes what no one drug formula can do in 1 to 3 hours. In the treatment of raging headaches, sinus pains, neuralgia or earache due to colds, "BC" is unequalled, being absolutely safe and free from opiates or habit-forming drugs.—(adv.)

THE GREAT AMERICAN VALUE

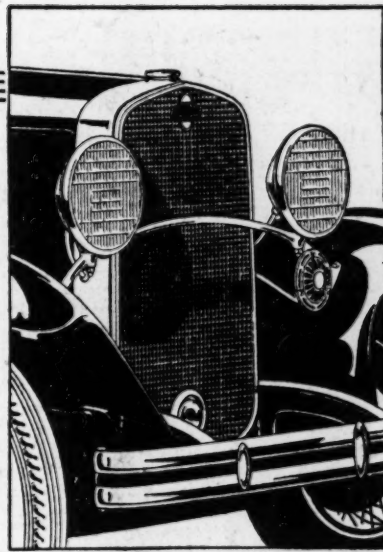

At the National Automobile Shows

Chevrolet wins first place for the fourth time

First place at the National Automobile Shows—a position granted on the basis of annual sales volume—is again awarded to Chevrolet.

This is the fourth consecutive time that Chevrolet has achieved this honor. And the reason lies in the exceptional value which Chevrolet cars consistently provide. This is confirmed by the fact that 72 per cent of all Chevrolets ever built are still in active use.

This year, in its bigger and better Six, Chevrolet is offering an outstanding example of the value which has brought it such record success. In fact, no previous Chevrolet car has ever represented such a high degree of quality and advancement, and sold at such low prices as today's Chevrolet Six—the Great American Value.

Based on the fanciful tale of Edgar Allan Poe, the American School of the Air will present a radio dramatization of "The Goldbug" which will be broadcast to school children over station WGST on a nationwide network of the Columbia Broadcasting System this afternoon at 1:30 o'clock. The drama takes the school children, in the company of one William Legrand, to Sullivan's Island, near Charleston, S. C., where Legrand has built a small hut and is living with his old negro servant, Jupiter. Legrand has found a new gold mine, a hickory nut and wishes to obtain information in regard to this species. How Legrand and his friends make an expedition into the hills and find a skull nailed in a tall tree, how they drop the goldbug through the eye of the skull and dig in a certain direction where it falls and find a chest containing fabulous sums of gold, diamonds, rubies and other jewels, is vividly portrayed.

W. L. (Young) Strubling will personally tell radio listeners his reactions to the scheduled heavyweight championship boxing match between himself and the present champion, Max Baer, next June, in a radio interview Wednesday night at 9:30 o'clock. Bill Munday will interview Strubling in the studios of WSB, and their comments will be broadcast through an NBC-WEAP network as the feature of the Coca-Cola program.

Oliver Palmer, coloratura soprano, will sing two favorite selections, "When I Was 17," and "Nymphs and Fauns," during the broadcast of the Palmolive hour tonight at 8:30 over a nationwide network including WSB. She will also join Paul Oliver in a soprano-tenor duet of "Deep in My Heart," Paul Oliver's other offerings will be "My Message" and "Roses of Picardy." A medley of songs of Bohemia will be presented by the Palmolive ensemble.

The orchestra, under the direction of Gustave Haenschen, will include, in their group of dance selections, two unique numbers, "Sleepy Town Express" and "Satan's Holiday."

Swedish Liquor System Regulates Consumption in Stringent Fashion

Editor's Note: Several members of the Wickersham commission have suggested that the commission's report on prohibition be modified to include a description of the Swedish plan. A description of the Swedish plan follows.

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—(UP)—The sale and distribution of liquor in Sweden has been regulated for the past 10 years by a semi-official company which handles the entire "prohibition" problem. The government adopted the system as outlined by Dr. Ivan Bratt.

The Bratt system works, briefly, as follows: The semi-official company (known as Vin and Spirituallagen) is privately organized, with shareholders, but the government appoints a majority of its board of directors. The government also names its managing director and half its auditors.

The sale of alcoholic beverages to the public is through a chain of companies, of which there are 120. Each controls a separate district. These companies establish stores at which liquor may be purchased for home consumption but not drunk on the premises. Liquor by the bottle cannot be purchased anywhere else. They also operate restaurants of which liquor may be purchased for home consumption but not drunk on the premises. Liquor by the bottle cannot be purchased anywhere else. They also operate restaurants of which liquor may be purchased for home consumption but not drunk on the premises.

The restrictions apply only to hard liquor. The holder of a pass book may buy all the light wines and beer he desires. However, close watch is kept on this consumption and the authorities feel a man is overindulging too frequently, action may be taken. The pass book is given to the holder of a party and feels he should have a party and feels he should have a party and feels he should have a party.

Profits limited. Shareholders' profits in the whole sale company and in all the retail companies are limited to 5 per cent. All profits are turned over to the government. It is estimated that the Swedish government averages about $25,000,000 a year from this source—about one-fifth the total annual revenue.

As a result of this Bratt system, nine-tenths of the liquor drinking is done in the home. The sale of liquor in Sweden for home consumption it is necessary to have a pass book issued by the local companies, as noted above. To obtain a pass book, one applies to the office of the company in the district in which he lives. He is given a questionnaire to answer.

The applicant must not only give his name and address, occupation, date and place of birth, but he must also go through a social and physical examination. He must tell how many persons there are in his family, if any, his income and whether he is not a taxpayer. He must also give the size of his house and whether or not he has received charitable aid. He must tell whether he has ever been arrested, particularly for drunkenness, and whether he has ever been arrested for drunkenness.

PRESS OPINIONS DECIDEDLY COOL

thing else for the prosperity party to point to with pride while the people view with alarm. Congress will ignore the noble gesture, of course, as it is outside of its jurisdiction.

Birmingham (Ala.) News.—Plainly, the wide difference of opinion among these two groups is going to make the prohibition still very much of an open question.

Raleigh (N. C.) Times.—The gist of the report is to hold everything in abeyance, to mark time, and wait the day when something may turn up or conditions change.

Birmingham (Ala.) Age-Herald.—If the superior intelligence and quality represented on the commission could find no key to the riddle, there must be something inherently elusive in this question. Under the circumstances, it behooves the layman, wet or dry, to be more tolerant in the premises than usual.

Savannah (Ga.) Morning News.—If there is anybody who cannot find something to suit him in the report, no matter how he looks at it, it is not the report, but the man who reads it.

Jacksonville (Fla.) Journal.—The report of the commission is, while it leaves the prohibition matter just where it is now.

Atlanta (Ga.) Journal.—No two of its 11 members, all noted for their independence of mind, are in agreement. The report does nothing else, it at least should serve to remind fanatics in both camps that there are no simple solutions to the problem.

Danville (Va.) Register.—The potential force of the commission is disappointing. It is not a jury, it is interesting to note that Newton D. Baker was for repeal. He thus becomes distinctly eligible for the democratic presidential nomination in 1932.

Charlotte (N. C.) Observer.—The Wickersham report as a whole, warrants no jubilation on the part of either the wets or the dries.

Norfolk (Va.) Virginian-Pilot.—The report, although flying the no-repeal, no-wine-or-beer and strict-enforcement flag, is in the hands of individual findings of a clear majority of its members, the most damaging blow against constitutional prohibition that has been delivered by the responsible body during the life of the eighteenth amendment.

Macon (Ga.) News.—Both wets and dries would do well to accept the Wickersham commission's report as a basis for immediate legislation. There is too much involved in the prohibition experiment to permit its abandonment without a genuine attempt to enforce it.

Savannah (Ga.) Press.—The Wickersham commission split up into various segments. There are many minds.

St. Petersburg (Fla.) Times.—The 11 members of the Wickersham law enforcement commission are unable to agree and the report on prohibition is embodied in an even dozen conflicting reports. . . . Its findings are, doubtless, what a pool of the nation could reveal.

William Allen White in the Emporia (Kan.) Gazette.—The Wickersham report is a breakdown of the theory that there is political wisdom in experts.

To Wickersham it means to go around and around honestly, earnestly, intelligently and get nowhere. Government is not a political and educated by leaders with definite convictions, not by inquiring groups with many ideas.

Wickershaming is not pussyfooting. It is not ducking or dodging, but it is a word which might well denote the fatality of counsel, strategy and pure logic before the majority of the nation. We cannot Wickersham ourselves out of this situation.

The Kansas City Star.—The report of the president's law enforcement commission has settled nothing. In its confusion and in the clashing opinions of its members it probably reflects the confusion in public thought that has developed in the working out of national prohibition.

The situation calls for a continuance of a study of the situation with an open mind. While the country should not be swept off its feet—and will not be—it is under obligation to consider all promising plans, including that of Commissioner Wickersham's, seem to hold out hope for improvement.

Boston Globe.—The Wickersham report on prohibition presents a picture with the spectacle of a hung jury.

any crime in which liquor has figured. The answers are investigated thoroughly. If the applicant's record stands he is in a position to receive a pass book. No youth under 28 years of age takes a pass book.

Swedish citizens are strictly regulated, even with a pass book. None may buy more than four liters (about 1.2 quarts) of hard liquor a month. Officials point out this represents what the average law-abiding workman drank before the law was put into effect. But not every man may be allowed to buy that maximum.

The authorities affix a maximum allowance to each individual. Men and women are never allowed more than two liters a month. A wife never receives more than half her husband's, and vice versa.

The amount fixed in each case, the date regarding the applicant, is filed in the central office, the holder of the pass book and the applicant's signature is filed, and he receives his little book. It contains order slips and in the back a ledger where purchases are recorded.

The holder is assigned a company store nearest his home. This one store is the only place in which he may buy liquor. He must produce his pass book every time he buys a bottle.

Plenty of Beer. The restrictions apply only to hard liquor. The holder of a pass book may buy all the light wines and beer he desires. However, close watch is kept on this consumption and the authorities feel a man is overindulging too frequently, action may be taken.

The pass book is given to the holder of a party and feels he should have a party and feels he should have a party and feels he should have a party.

Wines and beer may be served in hotels and restaurants without restriction. The holder of a pass book is not allowed to buy more than one bottle of wine or beer a month in which he may make a profit. All over that he makes nothing, he merely pays for the liquor.

Some of these recommendations have been enacted by the congress or are already in course of legislation. I commend these suggestions to the attention of the congress at an appropriate time.

The commission, by a large majority, does not favor the repeal of the 18th amendment as a method of cure for the inherent abuses of the liquor traffic. I am in accord with this view.

I am in unity with the spirit of the report in seeking constructive steps to advance the national ideal of eradication of the social and economic evils of this traffic to preserve the gains which have been made and to eliminate the abuses which exist, at the same time facing the open and honest question of the future of the liquor traffic.

Mr. Hoover made no reference to the modified Swedish liquor control plan. Mr. Anderson, dry, Virginia, republican, and supported by three others plus two more who favored it in event of a referendum, stood for repeal.

HOOPER STATEMENT ON SUBMISSION OF GROUP REPORT

President Hoover in transmitting the report said: "The first deficiency appropriation act of March 4, 1929, carried an appropriation for a thorough investigation as to the enforcement of the prohibition laws, together with the enforcement of other laws. In pursuance of this provision I appointed a commission consisting of former Attorney General George W. Wickersham, chairman; former Secretary of War Newton D. Baker, Federal Judge William S. Kenyon, Paul J. McCormick and William L. Grubb, former Chief Justice Kenneth Mackintosh, and the supreme court of the Harvard Law School; President Adl. L. Comstock, of Radcliffe College; Henry W. Anderson, of Virginia; Monte M. Lemann, of New Orleans; and Frank J. Loesch, of Chicago.

The commission thus comprises a group of distinguished citizens of character and independence of thought, representative of different sections of the country. For 18 months they have been exhaustively and painstakingly gathered and examined the facts as to enforcement, the benefits and the abuses under the prohibition laws, before and since the passing of the eighteenth amendment.

"I am transmitting their report immediately. Repeal upon the enforcement of other criminal laws will follow. The commission considers that the conditions of enforcement of the prohibition laws in the country as a whole are unsatisfactory, but it reports that the federal participation in enforcement has shown continued improvement since and, as a consequence, the enforcement of the act of 1927 placing prohibition of officers under civil service, and the act of 1930 transferring prohibition from the federal to the state enforcement, and it outlined further possible improvement.

"It calls attention to the urgency of obedience to law by our citizens and to the imperative necessity for greater assumption and performance by state and local governments of their share of responsibility for the enforcement of the constitution if enforcement is to be successful.

Henry W. Anderson.—(2)—The dry amendment cannot be enforced, so should be modified to allow concurrent enforcement of the liquor traffic, a plan for which he submitted.

Chairman George W. Wickersham.—(3)—A further trial should be made of national prohibition's enforcement, with strengthening of enforcement agencies.

Newton D. Baker.—(4)—Repeal of the amendment and remittal of the problem to the states is the solution.

Some of these recommendations have been enacted by the congress or are already in course of legislation. I commend these suggestions to the attention of the congress at an appropriate time.

The commission, by a large majority, does not favor the repeal of the 18th amendment as a method of cure for the inherent abuses of the liquor traffic. I am in accord with this view.

I am in unity with the spirit of the report in seeking constructive steps to advance the national ideal of eradication of the social and economic evils of this traffic to preserve the gains which have been made and to eliminate the abuses which exist, at the same time facing the open and honest question of the future of the liquor traffic.

Crime Commissioners' Views Revealed Wide Divergence of Law Ideas

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—(AP)—Here's the position taken by the individual law enforcement commissioners on the present problem. Adl. L. Comstock.—(5)—Enforcement is impossible without more public support, but revision is advocated rather than repeal of the amendment. Paul J. McCormick.—(6)—An opportunity should now be given for a fair trial of the prohibition experiment. If conditions are not improved within a reasonable time, the amendment should be revised to empower congress to deal with the problem. The question of repeal should be put up immediately to the public through state conventions. Kenneth Mackintosh.—(7)—If further efforts are not productive of reasonable enforcement and observance of private and state cooperation, revision of the 18th amendment should give congress power to meet changing conditions and differing situation in different localities. Monte M. Lemann.—(8)—Support of public and law agencies of the statements including those by Newton D. Baker, Paul J. McCormick and William S. Kenyon referring to the revision as one "suggested" by the commission, and by Chairman George W. Wickersham as having been "recommended" by the commission.

Monte M. Lemann, of Louisiana, referred to the present problem as a cause he believed the entire prohibition experiment was without the support of public opinion and that there was no reason to believe the amendment. Pending that, however, he is for increased appropriations to continue the effort to make enforcement as strong as possible.

All other members of the commission signed the report regardless of the extent to which they were out of harmony with some of its basic recommendations.

Much Disregard. The commission found general disregard in many sections for prohibition. Professed skepticism as to many of the facts of the problem was voiced in many sections, and the commission found a widespread feeling of indifference to the problem.

Commission's Findings Provoke Remarks as Divergent as Report

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS. The Wickersham commission's findings generated such conflicting comments as follow:

Senator Borah, republican, Idaho, prohibitionist: "The report will soon take its place in the dust on the upper shelf and the great debate will go forward on repeal or no repeal."

Senator Walsh, democrat, Massachusetts, anti-prohibitionist: "The report is an exhaustive indictment of prohibition. Mr. Hoover... takes his stand with the prohibition wing of his party and naps his own and his party's banner to the dry masthead."

Bishop Nicholson, of the Methodist Episcopal church, president of the Anti-Saloon League: "The report is a masterpiece in general they are most gratifying."

Senator Tydings, democrat, Maryland, anti-prohibitionist: "The significant thing is that after two years' study a majority finds that prohibition is unsatisfactory."

Senator Jones, republican, Washington, a prohibitionist: "I like the clear-cut, definite stand the president takes. There is no question about his position."

Representative LaGuardia, republican, New York, anti-prohibitionist: "The report shows the impossibility of enforcement and the noble experiment which still is a failure after 10 years and won't be a success after 20."

F. Scott McBride, national superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League: "It is a good report for us, and what we had a right to expect."

Representative Tinkham, republican, Massachusetts, anti-prohibitionist: "The recommendations of the report, taken as a whole, are an insult to the intelligence of the American people."

Andrew J. Volstead, author of the Volstead act: "Most of the recommendations made by the commission have my cordial approval."

Chairman Fess, of the republican national committee, prohibition advocate: "The subject, from time to time, is sound and satisfactory."

Senator Howell, republican, Nebraska, prohibitionist: "I am

Bill White Points Out Ills of Minor League Baseball in Georgia

TRANSPORTATION AND SALARIES MAIN PROBLEMS

Former Manager Columbus Foxes Also Dislikes Publishing Attendance Figures.

ATHENS, Ga., Jan. 20.—Colonel William P. White, baseball coach of the University of Georgia, and first manager of the Columbus Foxes of the Southeastern league, leaned back in his swivel chair, placed his feet more firmly on his desk, got a firmer grip on his nickel cigar and began to talk about the troubles of the minor leagues in general and the Southern and Southeastern leagues in particular.

"There are three things," said Colonel White, who is known to his baseball associates as the Old Fox from Athens, "that are hurting the minor leagues all over the country, and particularly in Georgia. These things are the salary problem, the publishing of attendance figures, and the transportation of players from one city to the other, which is absolutely necessary since you can't play baseball by radio."

KNOWS BASEBALL. Colonel White, or coach or manager, knows his baseball, and he knows his Georgia baseball. He used to umpire in the "good old days" of the Georgia State league, when every city of any size in the state of Georgia had a team in some sort of ball league. And as far as knowing baseball from the inside out—well, they call him "Connie Mack of the Minors."

"Minor leagues of the Southeastern league class," continued the Old Fox, "are laboring under the handicap of the old players who are coming back from the majors and who expect just about the same sort of salary in the minors that they got in the 'big time.' Of course they don't get it, and the demands have raised salaries higher than they really should be. Club owners and managers are getting around that difficulty by hiring more and more young players and developing them as they go along. But we still have the old players to contend with and unless something is done quickly, minor league baseball may be doomed for a while."

White paused to get his breath after his long spiel.

ANOTHER ILL. "Now," he said, banging his fist down on the top of his desk, "the big thing that's worrying the minors is the publication of the attendance lists at ball games. They've been low during the past year, for a lot of reasons, but the publication of the number going to the games has been a real killer. When a man sees in the paper that only a few people attended the game yesterday, he naturally figures that it isn't worth going to see. So he goes out and plays golf or sees a movie, while the baseball team he didn't want to attend gets a little higher and it would not make any difference whether or not they published them."

Quite exhausted by the long flow of words he'd just emitted, Coach White paused for a few puffs at his nearly dead cigar. Then he resumed:

"The transportation problem has owners and managers of Georgia clubs up a tree. We have to ride Pullmans, which costs a lot of money. In other states, where they have paved roads and the way, teams make the rounds of the leagues in big, comfortable buses with a minimum of expense to the owner. When Georgia's roads are paved, if ever, we can't have the composed of Columbus, Savannah, Waycross, Augusta, Macon, Albany, Thomasville and probably Jacksonville, all of them within eight hours' ride of each other. Such a league would draw big crowds and make its own way, because all of the cities I've mentioned are, or used to be, big baseball towns and would be now if they were given the right brand of ball."

NEED ROADS. "Of course," Coach White concluded, "that all hinges on the minors keeping alive until Georgia gets those roads paved. Which is what's worrying me. The majors haven't anything to worry about, they're sitting on top of the world right now."

SMITHIES MEET PURPLES TODAY. Tech High and Boys' High will continue their basketball war this afternoon in the feature game of a double-header in the third round of the Big Three schedule. Both games will be played on the Herty gymnasium. G. M. A. and Boys' High (B) teams will open the afternoon's activities at 3:15 o'clock. Tech High and Boys' High (A) teams will follow immediately after this game is over.

Activities in the North Georgia Interscholastic conference will be confined to one game being played and that will be on the Wesley Memorial court when Marietta and Fulton meet. Temporary leadership of the Big Three will be settled today in the Smithies-Purples scrap as they are deadlocked with one victory each. It should be one of the best basketball games of the first half of the season. Boys' High defeated G. M. A. 30 to 23, and the Smithies defeated the Cadets 30 to 19, two days later.

Speed King Slow When on Roads

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—(P)—Billy Arnold doesn't like to drive an automobile fast, that is, on the highways. It's too dangerous. "It's too risky, with all those Sunday drivers to outguess," exclaimed the country auto racing champion for 1930 and winner of the Indianapolis speedway grand last year. "These amateur speed demons who like to tell their neighbors how they 'hit 70' have never had a front tire go out when they were making 50 miles an hour. A blowout would muffle them, sure enough."

PETRELS START GRIDIRON WORK

27 Freshmen Report to Coach Robertson for Spring Drills.

By Jack Troy.

Twenty-seven freshmen football players practiced punting, passing and shifting as spring football practice opened at Oglethorpe Tuesday afternoon. Coach Harry Robertson was assisted by Curly Fulton, star guard who graduates this spring, and Claude Herrin, quarterback, who has another season ahead of him.

The freshmen plunged into the training grid ready for plenty of hard work and they were greeted with just that. Coach Robertson gave them opportunity to loosen up with a calisthenics and then passed out the heavy work.

Among other things the Petrel coach looked to his punting and passing material, which he discovered, will require further investigation. Capable punters among the first-year men are very scarce.

Bolden, Rogers and George seem to be the most promising booters while the former is a good passer. Coach Robertson held last year's Wren practicing tossers aerials.

One of the most pleasing things discovered thus far is the size of the yearling line. Such men as Johnson, Pickard, Alderhold, Goforth, Young, Barrow, Herriot and Shouse gave promise of added heft and strength to the Stormy Petrel gridiron edition of 1931.

The leading backfield candidates are Bolden, Harrison, Hildreath, Wren and Moss.

Coach Robertson turned the line candidates over to Fulton, who drilled them in military-like shift until they had a general idea as to its execution. The backfield men practiced passing and pass receiving under the direction of Coach Robertson and Herrin.

The work in fundamentals will be passed out freely this week and it is expected that scrimmages will be inaugurated the first part of next week.

AMATEURS PREP FOR RING MEET

Amateur boxers of the city are taking advantage of the last opportunities to prepare for the annual city championship tournament to be held Friday and Saturday in the A. A. C. gymnasium. More than a dozen entries are working out every afternoon at 5:30 o'clock at the club and a dozen more are working in private gymnasiums.

Joe Bean, who is in charge of the program, stated that 18 entries had been received and many others are expected to file entries.

Boxers from Fort Benning, Riverside Military Academy at Gainesville, Ga., and Georgia Military Academy, at College Park, are expected to enter. In the Southeastern A. A. U. tournament held last year at the club gymnasium, a large majority of the medals were won by boxers from Fort Benning. They have regular boxing classes on the government reservation near Columbus and many of them are expected to enter the city tournament Friday.

According to plans, a large number of the preliminaries, particularly in the middleweight and welterweight classes, which have the largest entry list at present, will be held Friday afternoon and early Saturday.

Entries are being received by Joe Bean at the Atlanta Athletic Club.

INTERNATIONAL LEAGUE BOWS TO DRAFT WAR

Baseball Problem Settled as Last of Minors Capitulates.

By Herbert W. Barker.

Associated Press Sports Writer.

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—(P)—Baseball's major internal problem, the universal draft question, has been settled by the unconditional surrender of the minor leagues.

Heretofore of the support of its two class AA brethren, the American Association and the Pacific Coast league, the International league today announced its capitulation to the majors' demands.

Thus all five of the so-called non-draft leagues have agreed to accept the universal draft by which the majors gain the right to draft or "select" any player in any minor league at a fixed price.

The American Association was the first of the big minors to wave the "white flag." A few days later the Pacific Coast league, the star guard who graduates this spring, and Claude Herrin, quarterback, who has another season ahead of him.

The freshmen plunged into the training grid ready for plenty of hard work and they were greeted with just that. Coach Robertson gave them opportunity to loosen up with a calisthenics and then passed out the heavy work.

Among other things the Petrel coach looked to his punting and passing material, which he discovered, will require further investigation. Capable punters among the first-year men are very scarce.

JONTS BOWS TO SHIKAT

Both men made back strong. Shikat punished with a series of arm locks and grapevine holds. Jones had his scissors open but was too close to the ropes and Shikat rolled him into them. Jones ran a series of eight flying mares and followed with two front headlocks. Shikat rallied with front headlocks.

The fall came after Shikat launched a second series of headlocks. Jones came back but Shikat trapped him into a back drop which shook the auditorium. Jones struggled up but a body slam downed him. He was in actual distress and while he might have come back he could have had no resistance. He was examined by Dr. W. A. Arnold, boxing commission physician.

In the semi-windup Nick Velocoff, Bulgarian, won a one-call match from Joe Vargo. It was a slam-bang affair with plenty of rough stuff. Once Vargo all but lifted Velocoff by grabbing a handful of hair.

The match had some moments of comedy and was a crowd-pleaser. The entire program was pleasing. Jack McManus, Atlanta boy, appeared in an "iron man" role. He won two matches, beating Claude St. John in 27 minutes and 15 seconds and Bill Howard in 12 minutes and 14 seconds. About 4,000 people witnessed the matches. Another card was announced for next Tuesday night by Matchmaker Henry Weber.

Dodd To Lead Vols Against Tech Tonight

New Tech Coach Will Battle Engineers on Court; Mercer Plays Y. Here.

Coach Robert Lee Dodd, of Kingsport, Tenn., will play Georgia Tech, his home-to-be after the first of March, a flying visit tonight. Robert Lee will not be at the Flats on coaching business—officially—but it is quite likely that he may have a few stray bits of knowledge to impart. He comes as leader of the Vol basketball team and will marshal his flocks against the Jacket courtmen along about 7:30 o'clock.

These Vols are one of the strong basketball teams of the conference. And Hobby Dodd is one of the strongest players on the team. He and Corbett, All-Southern forward, point a powerful passing and shooting combination which has been good for these many years and which is again this year presenting a good bid for conference honors.

The Jackets, completing their series with Florida last night, look ready to try the Vol steel this evening. Coach Mumford, still working and reworking his material in an effort to select the best possible combination from his squad, shifted his men on occasion last night and is expected to do the starting crew subject to changes. Corbett and Reeder, forwards; Greenblatt, center; and Dodd and O'Connor have been doing most of the playing for Tennessee to date and are expected to do likewise tonight.

With Tech and Tennessee holding forth at the Flats, downtown interest will be held by the Mercer-Y. M. C. A. game on the Luckie street court, which will get under way at 8:30 o'clock. It will be the first of a two-game local invasion by the Bears, who meet the J. P. C. quintet Wednesday. The Bears, rated below their 1930 strength, are still a good basketball club and figure to give the Triangles a real battle tonight.

The Atlanta Athletic Club carries the city's colors into LaGrange in the only other game slated for local major teams.

The club, which has had varying fortunes in past games this year, hopes to continue the winning streak started against Tech and pulled against the Y. M. C. A. Coach Joe Bean plans to take a 10-man squad on the invasion. Captain Joe McCrorey heads the playing list, while Bynum, Strickland and Armorous, also guards; Bell and Hudson, centers; and Player, Moore, Brewer and Stephens, forwards, complete the staff.

These fellows who want shorter schedules are simply making for more overemphasis. More games is the remedy," concluded Thorp.

Thorp will be present at the Southern conference basketball tournament here in February. He will come as a spectator and not as an official. He was here attending a meeting of Spalding's representatives.

'LEFTY' GROVE EAR FROM PEAK, TRAINER SAYS

Expects Athletic Star To Set New Record for Service.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 20.—(P)—If old "Doc" Ehling, the bone and muscle mender for the Philadelphia Athletics, knows his athletes, Robert Moses Grove will continue to be a terror to opposing batsmen for years to come. He thinks the lanky left-hander is improving all the time.

"Doc" was busy packing liniments, salves, bandages and electrical apparatus for shipment to the A's spring training camp.

"We won't need much of this stuff for Lefty," he said. "Why the only first aid given Grove last year was a bit of adhesive tape now and then to cover the cracks at the end of his forefinger. He should go right along pitching and winning for at least 10 years, maybe longer. I wouldn't be surprised if he sets up a record for length of service on the mound."

"I don't remember a time that Grove had a sore arm. Watch him work and you will understand why he escaped muscle cramps that bother other curves. He is loose-jointed; gets his entire body into his serves. No jerkiness, no rigidity in his movements, but a full sweep of arm and body that gives that speed to his fireball. He's a free-swinger, and his arm will last."

"A pitcher like Shores throws with his arm exclusively. That's why he had a sore wing frequently. Earnshaw hasn't the free delivery that marks Grove's pitching. But even so, Big George is loose enough to escape serious arm trouble. Barring accidents, Grove ought to be better this season than last, and he may not reach his peak for four or five years."

THE KIND OF DENTIFRICE THAT DENTISTS CONSIDER THE MOST EFFECTIVE?

Do you sometimes wonder if you actually are taking the best care of your teeth and gums? Then, you'll welcome the expert advice of thousands of American dentists. They overwhelmingly agree on one kind of dental cream.

A leading research institution made an investigation among 50,000 practicing dentists in order that this question of the most effective dentifrice might be authoritatively answered. Read the summary of the replies received:

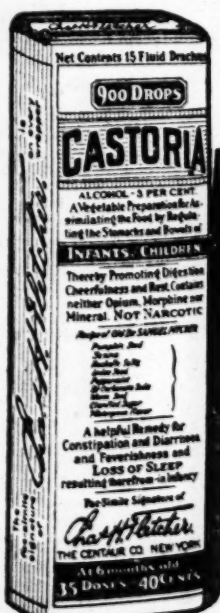

- 95% of the answers stated that germ acids most frequently cause tooth decay and gum irritation;
- 95% agreed that the most serious trouble occurs at the place where teeth and gums meet;
- 95% stated that the best product to prevent these acids from causing decay and irritating the gums is Milk of Magnesia.

Surely this is real assurance that you could select no better dentifrice to protect your teeth and gums than Squibb Dental Cream. For it is made with more than 50% Squibb Milk of Magnesia.

Squibb Dental Cream cleans thoroughly—teeth quickly gleam. And it is safe. Contains no grit, no astringents—nothing which might injure. Get a tube from your druggist.

FUSSY, fretful . . . of course babies are uncomfortable at teething time! And mothers are worried because of the little upsets which come so suddenly then. But there's one sure way to comfort a restless, teething child. Castoria—made especially for babies and children! It's perfectly harmless, as the formula on the wrapper tells you. It's mild in taste and action. Yet it rights little upsets with a never-failing effectiveness.

That's the beauty of this special children's remedy! It may be given to tiny infants—as often as there is need. In cases of colic and similar disturbances, it is invaluable. But it has every-day uses all mothers should understand. A coated tongue calls for a few drops to ward off constipation; so does any suggestion of bad breath. Whenever older children don't eat well, don't rest well, or have any little upset, a more liberal dose of this pure vegetable preparation is usually all that's needed. Genuine Castoria has Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the wrapper. Doctors prescribe it.

The Other Bullet

By Nancy Barr Mavity

INSTALLMENT XL

But though the De La Montanya place had an acreage which antedated the rise in property values and was larger than any of the others, it had nothing in common with the terraces, the open landscaped gardens, the gleaming white correctness of the Spanish architecture of its fellows. With the instinct for the right word which popular language sometimes exhibits, it had been known for decades, not as a house nor a "palatial home" but as a "mansion." The antiquated formality of the word suited it to perfection.

Yet as Peter walked up the quarter of mile of winding driveway in which the house was lost from sight, he looked in vain for any signs of the decay and disrepair which he had unconsciously associated with the house where an old woman lived alone with her memories of death.

The gardens belong to an era when no spot of ground was left uncovered by plants and shrubbery, but there were scrupulously tended. The thick hedge bordering the road was clipped to the smoothness of carpet, its sides straight as a wall and its top level as a floor.

Peter blessed the impulse which had led him to leave Bossy outside the grounds, in order to approach the house slowly and on foot. He paused at the last wide curve from which the driveway swept to a triumphant portico, wondering whimsically why the uncompromising square pile of red brick had an impressiveness which Peter's cynical detective failed to find in the perfect Spanish or period creations of modern American architects.

The gardens were huddled and pompous and Victorian—why, he had even caught sight of a summer house with a cupola! The house was plumed down in the middle with the smug assurance of a fat old queen in an armchair.

But the place had character—a personality of its own, blivious of fashions in art, oblivious of time. Peter remembered vaguely that the dark red painted bricks had been brought around the Horn. There was something in that. Bricks from around the Horn!

If your bricks had come around the Horn in a sailing vessel, you might well ignore the brilliant white stucco, the varicolored tiles of the "period" architect.

Maybe it wasn't beautiful. But it didn't have to imitate a period. It was a period. You didn't have to like it, but you had to respect it.

Peter had once been assigned to expose the pretensions of an alleged Russian grand duchess.

"She's got them all buffaloed; but you'd split in the eye of God!" Jimmy had said, in giving him the job.

Yet Peter's hat was in his hand as he stepped under the shadow of the portico, and he jerked the white enameled knob at the side of the front door. It was the kind of doorbell which Peter expected to be broken, but his pull called forth a prompt and distant tinkle, deep within the house.

His hand had hardly dropped when he heard the patter of hurrying footsteps within, but a moment later the door opened, disclosing a wispish little figure with thin white hair drawn to a knot scarcely large enough to embed a pair of bone hairpins.

Peter looked down upon a pair of dark eyes which had once been beautiful, a face which had once been smoothly olive, but was now the color of wet sand, patterned with innumerable wrinkles left by the ebbing tide of the years.

"Miss Maria de la Montanya? I wonder if you would be so kind as to let me trespass on your time for a few minutes." This was a transformed Peter—an extremely respectful, well-brought-up young man, whose deep bow indicated a proper reverence for his elders.

To his surprise, the arresting dark eyes beamed up at him with an unmistakable twinkle, and the door swung wide with an inviting gesture.

"Come in, do! I suppose you have something to sell, but I'd like to hear about it. I can buy things—it's almost the only thing I can do. Some people turn salesmen away from the door, but they don't know what it is."

The thin, musical voice that somehow reminded Peter of the tinkle of the doorbell, trailed into silence as she led the way through a wide hall into a lofty "front parlor" with woodwork of white and gold.

Peter's eyes swept the hall briefly in transit. There was the curving staircase where Lynn had stood in his bare feet, his hand on the balustrade. There were the portieres through which he had looked. But the double doors behind them, leading to the library, were closed.

Miss De La Montanya seated herself primly in a brocade armchair. She had lived with murder and mystery and heartbreak. She had watched her cousin's mind take refuge from grief too heavy to be borne and flee for refuge to the spurious solace of spiritualism.

She had lived alone with the shadows of death. But she had not succumbed. A sharp and alert intelligence looked unclouded from her sunken eyes. Her wizened mouth held a bitter acceptance of life, no matter what its terms.

"I'm afraid I haven't anything to sell," Peter said with his most disarming smile. "In fact, I'm being very intrusive. I really came just to talk to you."

"You needn't apologize. You're very welcome. I don't know who you are, of course, but you have nice manners. I'm old enough to pay you that compliment." As if by the time she had swept in and rearranged them, the pattern of wrinkles on the old face shifted. There had been a time, half a century ago, when Maria's smile had been called radiant. A dim reflection of that vanished radiance tinged it now with a flickering light.

"You're the first person in five years who has rung that front door bell, except agents. All the people we used to know are gone, and I'm afraid the place is considerably queer. I suppose I'm thought to be queer myself, for that matter. Since—since what happened here—and then with Judith's ideas, poor thing, people just naturally avoided the place."

Peter saw the wrinkled eyelids squeeze tight, with the weak tears of the aged. But she blinked them open again with valiant pride.

"There's the back door, of course. That's the one the servants use. Judith always preferred to have Chinese servants who came in by the day, so I've respected her wishes since she has gone. That's why I opened the front door myself. It's—it's a little bit lonely here, and even if it's only a canvasser, I'm glad to have somebody to talk to, now and again. Judith was good to me. She gave me a home because I was a young man of my own, so I couldn't very well do what she wouldn't like."

"So that's how the chauffeur happened to be the only servant in the house?" The words burst from Peter's lips before he could stop them.

"Yes, Jerome always had his own way, of course, and he wanted Lynn to stay in the house," Maria said simply. "The others slept outside. But how I'm rambling on! You'll get tired of me. What was it you wanted to talk about?" The eager wistfulness in the sweet old voice smote Peter's sympathy with its unconscious passion. She was actually afraid that she could not keep him—that he would become tired of her and go away!

"But I'm truly interested!" Peter reassured her. "It's a little difficult to explain, but I came to talk to you about—souls."

"Not spirits?" The thin shoulders lifted in a shrug of disbelief. "No, not spirits, just souls. Especially Jerome's soul, and maybe David's. By the way, are you really waiting for David to come back?"

"No, he's dead. Jerome had word of his death several years before he himself was killed. But Judith got so she wouldn't believe it. She couldn't believe that she'd lost them both. She was wrapped up in Jerome while he was alive, and after his death her mind went back to David. Sometimes it was his spirit she was waiting for, and sometimes she just—forgot that he wasn't merely away. Her mind, you see, never recovered from the shock of Jerome's murder. It was always a bit clouded afterward."

BY DONALD C. BOLLES.

Associated Press Financial Review.

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—(AP)—New York money market today was characterized by the reduction of time money rates and other cuts in the price of credit.

Liberty Bonds reached new high prices for the current rise, domestic investment issues were buoyant, while foreign loans displayed some irregularity.

The dullness of Monday's session proved only temporary, and the day's turnover expanded.

Cleveland and Pittsburgh 3 1/2s advanced 1/4 point to a new high and Cincinnati Union Terminal 4 1/2s, issued last year, climbed to a new peak at 105 3/4, up 1 1/4 on the day.

Other especially strong issues included 105 3/4s and 4 1/2s, Erie 5s, Hocking Valley 4 1/2s, at a new high and Louisville & Nashville 4 1/2s.

Investment in the form of communications and electric companies were firm. American Telephone bonds moved within a fraction of the 1930 high.

High-grade stock privilege issues made some headway, as stocks moved upward.
